Revised 1999, 2005, revised 2007

Mission Statement:

The Broadwater School & Community Library will provide all members of the community with free and equal access to the diversity of publicly available ideas and information.

The library will accomplish this mission by effectively providing open and non-judgmental access to its resources and services without regard to race, citizenship, age, sex, handicap, creed, educational level, economic status, or any other qualifying condition. The library will actively serve as a community center for information and personal education, recreation and enrichment.

The library will also strive to identify the current and future needs and interests of the community, school and individuals so that those resources and services most needed and wanted will be easily available.

COLLECTION DEVELOPMENT POLICY

A. Introduction

1. Audiences and Purposes of the Policy

This policy is intended to provide a tool to assist in the shaping of library goals, patron needs, and acquisitions to the collection. It is intended to provide the staff, school, governing bodies and the community with information as to how selections of materials are made. This policy will stay flexible in consideration of changing needs in an era of increasing information.

2. Community Analysis & User Groups Defined

Broadwater County is mountainous with expansive valley areas that are used for agriculture. Canyon Ferry Lake covers 43,435 acres in the northern part of the county. The Missouri River flows through the county offering both irrigation for crops and recreational opportunities. Situated between Bozeman and Helena, it is located on one of the major two land highways in the state. Because of the quality of life and a lower cost of living, some residents live in the county and commute to Helena. Older residents are choosing to retire in Townsend.

Broadwater County had a population of 3,318 in 1990 which grew to 4,385 in 2000. Townsend, the only incorporated town in the county, had a population of 1,867 in 2000. Users in the library include pre-school, students, professionals, unemployed, retired, and nursing home residents.

The Broadwater School & Community Library is a consolidated library encompassing the combined operations and collections of the county and local school system. The library is governed by an interlocal agreement between Broadwater County and Townsend Schools, K-12 District #1. The governing library board is made up of representatives appointed by the county commissioners and school district. In accordance with the interlocal agreement, the school district is charged with the responsibility of managing the personnel, financial, and day-to-day operations of the consolidated library.

Assessing and Evaluating Patron Need & Services

new { Broadwater School and Community Library shall regularly evaluate its services to assure that the service furthers the institution's goals and that the goals reflect the needs and interests of the community/school served. Results of the evaluation will be used to determine the optimum allocation of resources to provide quality service.

The library will strive to provide the best possible services for all patrons. Patrons are encouraged to express their concerns to the individual library staff or to the Chief Librarian. Issues that cannot be resolved with the Chief Librarian shall be referred to the Superintendent and or the Library Board.

5. Cooperative Collection Management and Interlibrary Loan

Materials are interlibrary loaned when they fall outside the area of general information provided by the library. See Appendix L—Interlibrary loan. The library cooperates with other libraries in the exchange of large print materials.

B. General Priorities, Limitations and Policies

1. Chronological Coverage

Volumes retained in the collection contain information of a general nature relevant to the subject. Volumes considered classics in the field are kept. At current levels the average age of the non-fiction materials is 1991 and the fiction materials would be 1986. The collection reflects the various interests of our patron base.

2. Formats

The following formats are collected in the library: books, periodicals, video tapes, sound recordings, slides, software, DVD's, CD-ROM, and online databases.

Paperbacks are purchased by the library for popular reading, and are entered into the non-fiction and reference collections when deemed appropriate.

Textbooks will be used as an informational source only if this is the only source available. Large print is purchased with the intent of currency for rotation with another library. Other formats are considered for the collection if space allows.

Pamphlets will not be added to the collection. They will be placed in the information section.

3. Multiple Copies

The library normally does not purchase duplicate material. Accelerated Reader (AR) will be the exception.

4. Languages

Additional copies of materials in non-English format will be acquired as needed.

5. Funding Considerations

Some New
Funding for the library collection is a joint school/county effort outlined through the interlocal agreement. Monthly book budget is divided equally between public and school acquisitions. Audio and video materials are purchased, as needed, with equal amounts for public and school. This will be in keeping with the collection development guidelines. Other funding sources may include: donations, federation money, state aide, and the Friends of the Library.

6. Collection Responsibilities and Selection Procedures

rewrite
Broadwater School and Community Library provides a collection that balances viewpoints across a broad spectrum of opinion and subject matter in formats suitable to a variety of learning and recreational interests and skills. Materials reflects the philosophy, goals, material needs and interests of the school district and citizens of Broadwater County. The library strives to purchase materials recommended by Montana Office of Public Instruction. In addition, the school district and the library board endorses the American Library Association Bill of Rights and The Freedom to Read statement. rather than fiction

The Public and School Librarians shall make specific selections. When appropriate, the librarians will solicit broad participation from staff, students, parents/guardians, and community members. Also, librarians shall select materials by examination from reviews, recommended lists, and standard bibliographic tools. If materials are to principally serve the school district needs and goals, then the selection criteria found in Appendix A will be used.

7. Gifts Policy

The chief librarian in conjunction with the joint board has the final authority of acceptance of all gifts. All donations are accepted by the library with relevance to the collection. Other material will be sold or discarded in accordance with joint board policy. No gifts are received with "strings" attached, unless reviewed and approved by the joint board. No appraisal of gifts can be given, but donation forms are available.

Once an item is donated to the library, it becomes the property of the library, and will be treated in the same manner as books purchased. If a donor wishes, a special gift bookplate will be put on a book, identifying it as a gift from the named donor. Monetary gifts and bequests are accepted and noted in the memorial and gift book, then placed in the Broadwater County Friends of the Library Fund or Interlocal Agreement Fund 82. See Appendix P for donation form.

Any donations more than 15 years old, are not accepted with the exception of the Montana Collection and Fiction which will be evaluated on an individual basis.

8. Collection Maintenance

See Appendix C - Collection Weeding Policy

9. Complaints and Censorship

See Appendix B - Guidelines for the Reconsideration of Library Media Center Material

C. Subject Areas Collected

Collection Levels: The levels are adapted from RLG Collection Development Manual, 2nd Ed. The levels are defined as follows:

0—Out of Scope - Library does not collect.

1b—Minimal Level - Minimal levels, but chosen well: few selections are made, but basic authors, some core works, or a spectrum of ideological views are represented. Can support fundamental school and public library inquires.

basic level up

2a—Basic Level - Basic study level, introductory: a collection of up-to-date materials that serve to introduce and define a subject and to indicate the varieties of information available elsewhere. A collection of this level may include: dictionaries, encyclopedias, and periodicals in the minimum number that will serve the purpose. A basic information collection can support school instruction and routine public inquires, but is not sufficiently intensive to support higher-level academic courses or independent study or the wide-ranging recreational reading demands of a highly educated general public.

3a—Study Level— Includes the most important primary and secondary literature, a selection of basic representative periodicals, and the fundamental reference pertaining to the subject. Adequate for independent and for the lifelong learner needs of the general public, covering appropriate reading levels.

A long-range goal of weeding must be done on this level and beyond to make room for more current materials. Withdrawal of damaged and little-used materials is vital.

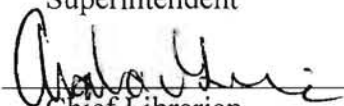

D. POLICY IMPLEMENTATION, EVALUATION, AND REVISION

APPENDICES

APPENDIX A

Adapted from School District Policy 2630

BROADWATER SCHOOL AND COMMUNITY LIBRARY MATERIALS SELECTION AND ADOPTION

In order to educate each student to the fullest, a wide variety of materials should be provided to meet curricular needs and the greatest possible diversity of student and patron interests. In addition, these materials will consist of both print and non-print media, including library books, magazines and newspapers, filmstrips, slides, video and audio recordings, computer software, and other educational media.

Selection Criteria

Library materials will be carefully evaluated based on the following selection standards and guidelines. In most instances, the selected materials should meet a significant number of the criteria listed below, although a single resource need not meet all the criteria in order to be selected. Materials will be selected for their strengths rather than rejected for their weaknesses.

- Standard 1 Materials shall be consistent with and provide both support and enrichment for the school district's general educational goals, its selected program goals, and the objectives of specific courses.
- Standard 2 Materials shall meet high standards of quality in content and format.
- Standard 3 Materials shall be appropriate for the ability level, emotional and social development of the students for whom the materials are selected.
- Standard 4 Materials shall promote growth in factual knowledge and critical thinking.
- Standard 5 Materials shall represent various points of view even when those opinions represented are controversial. The inclusion of such controversial materials does not imply endorsement of those ideas by district personnel.
- Standard 6 Materials shall stimulate growth in the areas of literary appreciation, asocial and aesthetic values, and ethical standards.
- Standard 7 Materials shall represent the contributions of all people regardless of age, sex, religion, ethnic or cultural origin.
- Standard 8 In accordance to State requirements, the Native American Collection will be weeded, developed, and maintained to include items which are historically and culturally accurate about the Native Americans in Montana and the nation. Materials related to Native American cultures that represent those cultures in a stereotypical manner will be weeded from the library. New materials will be screened for appropriateness prior to purchase.

Library Bill of Rights

The American Library Association affirms that all libraries are forums for information and ideas, and that the following basic policies should guide their services:

1. Books and other library resources should be provided for the interest, information, and enlightenment of all people of the community the Library serves. Materials should not be excluded because of the origin, background, or views of those contributing to their creation.
2. Libraries should provide materials and information presenting all points of view on current and historical issues. Materials should not be proscribed or removed because of partisan or doctrinal disapproval.
3. Libraries should challenge censorship in the fulfillment of their responsibility to provide information and enlightenment.
4. Libraries should cooperate with all persons and groups concerned with resisting abridgement of free access to ideas.
5. A person's right to use a library should not be denied or abridged because of origin, age, background, or views.
6. Libraries which make exhibit spaces and meeting rooms available on an equitable basis, regardless of the beliefs or affiliations of individuals or groups requesting their use.

The Freedom To Read*

The freedom to read is essential to our democracy. It is continuously under attack. Private groups and public authorities in various parts of the country are working to remove books from sale, to censor textbooks, to label "controversial" books, to distribute lists of "objectionable" books or authors, and to purge libraries. These actions apparently rise from a view that our national tradition of free expression is no longer valid; that censorship and suppression are needed to avoid the subversion of politics and the corruption of morals. We as citizens devoted to the use of books and as librarians and publishers responsible for disseminating them, wish to assert the public interest in the preservation of the freedom to read.

We are deeply concerned about these attempts at suppression. Most such attempts rest on a denial of the fundamental premise of democracy: that the ordinary citizen, by exercising his critical judgment, will accept the good and reject the bad. The censors, public and private, assume that they should determine what is good and what is bad for their fellow-citizens.

We trust Americans to recognize propaganda, and to reject it. We do not believe they need the help of censors to assist them in this task. We do not believe they are prepared to sacrifice their heritage of a free press in order to be "protected" against what others think may be bad for them. We believe they still favor free enterprise in ideas and expression.

We are aware, of course, that books are not alone in being subjected to efforts at suppression. We are aware that these efforts are related to a larger pattern of pressures being brought against education, the press, films, radio and television. The problem is not only one of actual censorship. The shadow of fear cast by these pressures leads, we suspect, to an even larger voluntary curtailment of expression by those who seek to avoid controversy.

Such pressure toward conformity is perhaps natural pervading fear. Especially when so many of our apprehensions are directed against an ideology, the expression of a dissident idea itself, and we tend to move against it as against a hostile deed, with suppression.

And yet suppression is never more dangerous than in such a time of social tension. Freedom has given the United States the elasticity to endure strain. Freedom keeps open the path of novel and creative solutions, and enables change to come by choice. Every silencing of a heresy, every enforcement of an orthodoxy, diminishes the toughness and resilience of our society and leaves it the less able to deal with stress.

Now as always in our history, books are among our greatest instruments of the only means for making generally available ideas or manners of expression that can initially command only a small audience. They are the natural medium for the new idea and the untried voice from which come the original contributions to social growth. They are essential to the extended discussion which serious thought requires, and to the accumulation of knowledge and ideas into organized collections.

We believe that free communication is essential to the preservation of a society and a creative culture. We believe that these pressures towards conformity present the danger of limiting the range and variety of inquiry and expression on which our democracy and our culture depend. We believe that every American community must jealously guard the freedom and publish and to circulate, in order to preserve its own freedom to read. We believe that publishers and librarians have a profound responsibility to give validity to that freedom to read by making it possible for the readers to choose freely from a variety of offerings.

The freedom to read is guaranteed by the Constitution. Those with faith in free men will stand firm on these constitutional guarantees of essential rights and will exercise the responsibilities that accompany these rights.

We therefore affirm these propositions:

1. It is in the public interest for publishers and librarians to make available the widest diversity of views and expressions, including those which are unorthodox or unpopular with the majority.

Creative thought is by definition new, and what is new is different. The bearer of every new thought is a rebel until his idea is refined and tested. Totalitarian systems attempt to maintain themselves in power by the ruthless suppression of any concept which challenges the established orthodoxy. The power of a democratic system to adapt to change is vastly strengthened by the freedom of its citizens to choose widely from among conflicting opinions offered freely to them. To stifle every nonconformist idea at birth would mark the end of the democratic process. Furthermore, only through the constant activity of weighing and selecting can the democratic mind attain the strength demanded by times like these. We need to know not only what we believe by why we believe it.

2. Publishers, librarians and booksellers do not need to endorse every idea or presentation contained in the books they make available. It would conflict with the public interest for them to establish their own political, moral or aesthetic views as a standard for determining what books should be published or circulated.

Publishers and librarians serve the educational process by helping to make available knowledge and ideas required for the growth of the mind and the increases of learning. They do not foster education by imposing as mentors the patterns of their own thought.

The people should have the freedom to read and consider a broader range of ideas than those that may be held by any single librarian or publisher or government or church. It is wrong that what one man can read should be confined to what another thinks proper.

3. It is contrary to the public interest for publishers or librarians to determine the acceptability of a book on the basis of the personal history or political affiliations of the author.

A book should be judged as a book. No art or literature can flourish if it is to be measured by the political views or private lives of its creators. No society of freemen can flourish which draws up lists of writers to whom it will not listen, whatever they may have to say.

4. There is no place in our society for efforts to coerce the taste of others, to confine adults to the reading matter deemed suitable for adolescents, or to inhibit the efforts of writers to achieve artistic expression.

To some, much of modern literature is shocking. But is not much of life itself shocking? We cut off literature at the source if we prevent writers from dealing with the stuff of life. Parents and teachers have a responsibility to prepare the young to meet the diversity of experiences in life to which they will be exposed, as they have a responsibility to help them learn to think critically for themselves. These are affirmative responsibilities, not to be discharged simply by preventing them from reading works for which they are not yet prepared. In these matters taste differs, and taste cannot be legislated; nor can machinery be devised which will suit the demands of one group without limiting the freedom of others.

5. It is not in the public interest to force a reader to accept with any book the prejudgment of a label characterizing the book or author as subversive or dangerous.

The idea of labeling presupposes the existence of individuals or groups with wisdom to determine by authority what is good or bad for the citizen. It presupposes that each individual must be directed in making up his mind about the ideas he examines. But Americans do not need others to do their thinking for them.

6. It is the responsibility of publishers and librarians, as guardians of the people's freedom to read, to contest encroachments upon that freedom by individuals or groups seeking to impose their own standards or tastes upon the community at large.

It is inevitable in the give and take of the democratic process that the political, the moral, or the aesthetic concepts of an individual or group will occasionally collide with those of another individual or group. In a free society each individual is free to determine for himself what he wishes to read, and each group is free to determine what it will recommend to its freely associated members.

But no group has the right to take the law into its own hands, and to impose its own concept of politics or morality upon other members of a democratic society. Freedom is no freedom it is accorded only to the accepted and the inoffensive.

7. It is the responsibility of publishers and librarians to give full meaning to the freedom to read by providing books that enrich the quality and diversity of thought and expression. By the exercise of this affirmative responsibility, bookmen can demonstrate that the answer to a bad idea is a good one.

The freedom to read is of little consequence when expended on the trivial; it is frustrated when the reader cannot obtain matter fit for his purpose. What is needed is not only the absence of restraint, but the positive provision of opportunity for the people to read the best that has been thought and said. Books are the major channel by which the intellectual inheritance is handed down, and principal means of its testing and growth. The defense of their freedom and integrity, and the enlargement of their service to society, requires of all bookmen the utmost of their faculties, and deserves of all citizens the fullest of their support.

We state these propositions neither lightly nor as easy generalizations. We here stake out a lofty claim for the value of books. We do so because we believe that they are good, possessed of enormous variety and usefulness, worthy of cherishing and keeping free. We realize that the application of these propositions may mean the dissemination of ideas and manners of expression that are repugnant to many persons. We do not state these propositions in the comfortable belief that what people read is unimportant. We believe rather that what people read is deeply important; that ideas can be dangerous; but that the suppression of ideas is fatal to a democratic society. Freedom itself is a dangerous way of life, but it is ours.

APPENDIX F

Copyright Compliance

School District Policy 2680

The board recognizes that federal law makes it illegal to duplicate copyrighted materials without authorization of the holder of the copyright, except for certain exempt purposes. Severe penalties may be imposed for unauthorized copying or using of audio visual, printed, and software materials unless the copying or using conforms to the "fair use" doctrine.

Under the "fair use" doctrine, unauthorized reproduction of copyrighted materials is permissible for such purposes as criticism, comment, news reporting, teaching, scholarship or research. If duplicating or changing a product is to fall within the bounds of fair use, these four standards must be met:

- Standard 1 The use must be for such purposes as teaching or scholarship and must be non-profit.

- Standard 2 Single copies may be made of: book chapters for use in research, instruction or preparation for teaching; articles from periodicals or newspapers; short stories, essays or poems; and charts, graphs, diagrams, drawings, cartoons or pictures from books, periodicals, or newspapers in accordance with these guidelines.

- Standard 3 Copying the whole of a work cannot be considered fair use; copying a small portion may be if these guidelines are followed.

- Standard 4 If resulting economic loss to the copyright holder can be shown, even making a single copy of certain materials may be an infringement, and making multiple copies presents the danger of greater penalties.

While the district encourages its staff to enrich the learning programs by making proper use of supplementary materials, it is the responsibility of district staff to abide by the district's copying procedures and obey the requirements of the law. In no circumstances shall it be necessary for district staff to violate copyright requirements in order to perform their duties properly. The district cannot be responsible for any violations of the copyright law by its staff.

APPENDIX G

Confidentiality of Library Records

The Broadwater School & Community Library will adhere to the requirements of the Montana Library Records Confidentiality Act, 22-1-1101, 1102, 1103, 1104, 1111 and the guidelines for confidentiality of library records as recommended by the Council of the American Library Association.

The Council recommends:

1. That a library formally adopt a policy which specifically recognizes its circulation records and other records identifying the names of library users to be confidential in nature.
2. That all librarians and library employees are advised that such records shall not be made available to any agency of state, federal, or local government except pursuant to such process, order, or subpoena as may be authorized under the authority of, and pursuant to, federal, state, or local law relating to civil, criminal, or administrative discovery procedures or legislative investigative power.
3. That a library resist the issuance or enforcement of any such process, order, or subpoena until such time as a proper showing of good cause has been made in a court of competent jurisdiction.

By complying with the requirements of the Montana Library Records Confidentiality Act cited above, the Broadwater School & Community Library meets both the letter and the intent of the Council's recommendations.

Interlibrary Loan

Costs/Fees/Charges: Broadwater School and Community Library (BSCL) charges $2.50 to cover the usual postage fees for interlibrary loan. Added lending and photocopying fees charged by lending libraries are the patron's responsibility. This must be paid in advance of submitting the request.

Request Limits: An eligible patron may submit one interlibrary loan request at a time. The library will search three locations for a title requested through interlibrary loan.

Electronic Network and Internet Access Policy

MISSION:

The mission of the Broadwater School/Community Library is to ensure that the people of Broadwater County have the right and means to free and open access to ideas and information which are fundamental to a democracy. The Library will protect intellectual freedom, promote literacy, encourage lifelong learning, and provide library materials and information services.

Throughout its history the Broadwater School/Community Library has made information available in a variety of formats, from print to audiovisual materials. The library's computer system provides the opportunity to integrate electronic resources from information networks around the world with the Library's other resources.

The Internet, as an information resource, enables the Library to provide information beyond the confines of its own collection. It allows access to ideas, information and commentary from around the globe. Currently, however, it is an unregulated medium. As such, while it offers access to a wealth of material that is personally, professionally, and culturally enriching to individuals of all ages, it also enables access to some material that may be offensive or disturbing.

In introducing the Internet as an information resource, the Broadwater School/Community Library's goal is to enhance its existing collection in size and depth and as a public access agency give opportunity to any citizen who wishes to participate in navigating the Internet.

The Library does not control or monitor other material which may be accessible from Internet sources. It is not possible to apply the same criteria which are used for other materials.

PURPOSE:

The Library upholds and affirms the right of each individual to have access to constitutionally protected material. The Library also affirms the right and responsibility of parents to determine and monitor their children's use of Library materials and resources.

Each and every user accepts responsibility to protect the rights of the community. (Any member of the Broadwater School/Community Library who, without authorization, accesses, uses, destroys, alters, dismantles, or disfigures any institution's information technologies, properties or facilities, including those owned by third parties, thereby threatens the atmosphere of increased access and sharing of information, threatens the atmosphere of members of the community, and has engaged in unethical and unacceptable conduct). Moreover, that person may be guilty of violating the Montana Criminal Code and such action may be punishable by a sentence and/or fine.

GENERAL POLICIES:

The Broadwater School/Community Library and the staff characterize as unethical and unacceptable, and just cause for taking disciplinary action including the removal of networking privileges, and/or legal action for (but not limited to) any of the following:

1. Violates institutional or third party copyright license agreements and other contracts.
2. Interferes with the intended use of the information resources.
3. Seeks to gain or gains unauthorized access to information resources.
4. Uses or knowingly allows another to use any computer, computer network, computer system, program, or software to devise or execute any artifice or scheme to defraud or to obtain money, property, services, or other things of value by false pretenses, promises, or representations.
5. Without authorization, destroys, alters, dismantles, disfigures, prevents rightful access to or otherwise interferes with the integrity of computer based information and/or information resources.
6. Without authorization invades the privacy of individuals or entities that are creators, authors users, or subjects, of the information resources.
7. Transmits or causes to be transmitted communications that may be construed as harassment or disparagement of others based on their race, creed, religion, color, sex, physical or mental disability, age or national origin.
8. Violates state or federal laws pertaining to the unauthorized use of computing resources or networks.
9. Use of other organization's network or computing resources must comply with the rule appropriate for that network. Transmission of any material in violation of any U.S. or state regulation is prohibited. This includes, but is not limited to: copyrighted material, threatening or obscene material, or material protected by trade secret. Use for commercial activities by Broadwater School/Community Library institutions is generally not acceptable. Use for product advertisement or political lobbying is also prohibited.

Inappropriate use will result in a cancellation of user privileges. The staff further reserves the right to deem what is inappropriate use. The Broadwater School/Community Library has the right to restrict or terminate electronic network or Internet access at any time.

SECURITY POLICY.

PURPOSE:

Network security is essential for the effective and efficient operation of the network and for the provision of network services. Security is the responsibility of all members of the network, including users of the network, local technical staff and network support staff.

The Broadwater School/Community Librarians reserve the right to monitor network communications, including but not limited to electronic mail and file transfer, in order to protect the operation of the network.

If you feel you can identify a security problem on the Internet, you must notify a staff member. Do not demonstrate the problem to other users. Do not use another individual's account without written permission from that individual. Attempts to breach system security will result in cancellation of user privileges. Any user identified as a security risk or having a history of problems with other computer systems will be denied access to the Internet and/or other electronic networks.

PRIVACY POLICY:

Recognizing the privacy of personal communications is both a fundamental ethical value and an essential requirement for the operation of the network. Protecting privacy of network communications is the responsibility of all members of the network, including users of the network, local technical staff and network support staff.

All personal files shall be presumed to be confidential, examining or disclosing the contents only when authorized by the owner of the information, approved by the appropriate official, or required by local, state, or federal law.

Employees who in the course of their work, have access to records, files, or data belonging to others shall take reasonable precautions to avoid invading the privacy of individuals without their knowledge, and shall not divulge or disclose such information to others, unless required by institutional policy, or federal or state law.

VANDALISM:

Vandalism will result in cancellation of privileges. Vandalism is defined as any malicious attempt to harm or destroy data of another user or harm equipment of any agencies connected to this network. This includes, but is not limited to, the uploading or creating of computer viruses.

USER INFORMATION

Broadwater School/Community Library may occasionally require new registration and account information from patrons to continue the service. Patrons must notify the Broadwater School/Community Library of any changes in their account information (address, etc.)

OTHER:

Designated electronic networks will be located where they can be monitored by staff for assistance and security. (The Library reserves the right to require all prospective users to attend an orientation session as a condition for access to the Library electronic stations. (Orientation may include training in the use of software and hardware, and guidelines for the responsible care of the Library equipment.)

Prospective users will agree to follow the Broadwater School/Community Library's policies and guidelines for Electronic and Internet Use. A Drivers License or picture ID may be required for use by minors. Youth under 18 years of age will be required to have parental or guardian permission to access the Internet. While the Library will make every effort to ensure that the use of the Internet is consistent with the Mission statement, parents are encouraged to work closely with their children in selecting material that is consistent with personal and family values and boundaries.

The Library will establish procedures that will make Internet stations available on a first come, first served basis. Other guidelines may be established to facilitate use of the electronic network. Internet use will be managed in a manner consistent with the library rules which have been adopted and are available upon request.

EXPANDED COLLECTIONS

Parents/guardians should be reminded that with the consolidation of the collections, the elementary students will have access to the adult fiction and nonfiction collections from the public library. Although these are quality materials, some parents and guardians may find them inappropriate for checkout by their younger children.

The librarians will continue to guide and monitor selection by the students during their class time in the library. However, the librarians cannot restrict student choices after school or in the evenings. It is the responsibility of the parents and guardians to restrict the choice of books for their children at those times if they wish to do so.
